Rameder towbars turn US cars into transporters

US cars are getting ever more popular in Europe too, and not only vintage cars but also fairly new models. And they cope here very well but their transport capacities are often not in line with their huge dimensions. And if they are, bigger is still better! So, Rameder, Europe's leading provider of towbars and transport accessories, at www.rameder.eu sells many retrofittable products that will make these US cars even more versatile.

One of the many US cars for which Rameder has the right towbar and accessories available is the Chrysler 300C. While this limo is as American as it gets, in the course of the merger of Lancia and Chrysler it also got a bit Italian. But its transport capacities have been enhanced by Rameder in Germany, with a removable towbar as a complete set incl. electrical kit costing €494 and making the car an all-rounder.

Another interesting car for which Rameder has the right towbar is the Dodge Nitro. This compact SUV is characterised by a retractable bed, making it easier to fill the 2,000l boot. Nonetheless, trailers are the transport champions, so Rameder sells the rigid complete set with an electrical kit for €200 and removable incl. electrical kit for €344.

Thanks to the huge trailer and vertical load – up to 3.5t for the Dodge Nitro and up to 2t for the 300C – Rameder towbars allow for the use of various trailers and also bike carriers. These make use of the car's wake and you no longer have to lift your bikes onto the car's roof. For these and other products, check out Rameder's shop at www.rameder.eu.
